Overview

Vivi (or Guerrieri ViVi, literally “Living Warriors”) is an Italian anti-vax conspiracy group that has been active both online and offline since the start of the Covid-19 pandemic. Through coordinated efforts on Facebook and Twitter, the group – whose name is inspired by V for Vendetta – mobilises harassment campaigns against pro-vax politicians and seeks to organise violence and vandalism. Individuals involved in the movement have been prosecuted by the Italian authorities for a host of reasons, including vandalising vaccination centres, running harassment campaigns against pro-vax politicians, and threatening politicians and doctors.

Although the movement’s social media profiles were reportedly taken down by Facebook in December 2021, this report finds that the ViVi movement continues to engage in large-scale coordinated inauthentic behaviour on the platform – raising questions about the effectiveness and consistency of Meta’s self-reported intervention.<sup>1</sup> The objective of the coordinated harassment campaign identified by our analysis is seemingly twofold: to suppress and intimidate pro-vax voices, and to recruit followers of the Facebook Pages to ViVi’s Telegram channels that contain instructions for “joining the fight” (including a voice call with a ViVi “warrior” and financial incentives for vandalising official buildings or political party offices).

Such activity, in our view, violates several of Facebook’s community standards. In its terms of service, Meta claims that the company does not allow recruitment efforts on behalf of dangerous organisations or individuals, and its stated policy is to remove misinformation about vaccines. When Meta’s policies against spam and harassment are also taken into account, the company’s decision to allow the ViVi movement to continue operating on the platform appears even more questionable. With examples of Italian political parties self-censoring by deleting their Facebook content after being “literally inundated with comments from fake profiles”, and ample evidence of associated offline harms, it is imperative that Meta take action to address this issue. The next Italian general election is less than a year away, and Covid-19 numbers are rising again as Europe heads into the second half of 2022. The time is now for social media companies to step up and take stronger measures to prevent the spread of vaccine disinformation and associated violent ideologies.

<sup>1</sup> In its Adversarial Threat Report, Meta noted that the ViVi movement had been “publicly reported to engage in violent online and offline behaviours”, further noting that the network had operated with a “combination of authentic, duplicate and fake accounts to mass comment on posts from Pages, including news entities, and individuals to intimidate them and suppress their views.”

Key Findings

ViVi Activity on Facebook

- An analysis of user comments on 48 public Facebook pages affiliated with Italian political parties and politicians revealed a seemingly coordinated harassment and spam campaign consisting of over 15,000 pieces of content authored by the ViVi movement.<sup>2</sup> The Facebook Pages of Partito Democratico, Articolo UNO, and Italia Viva were the most frequent targets of ViVi's violent behaviour.
- The content at issue was designed to suppress and intimidate pro-vax voices, as well as recruit new followers to Telegram channels that contain instructions for various offline ways to "join the fight" (including incentives for vandalism).
- The largest portion of the text-based content disseminated by ViVi accounts on Facebook compares the Italian Government to a "Nazi Regime" because of its pro-vaccination policies, while also misrepresenting climate change as a "hoax".
- Coinciding with a peak in ViVi activity on Facebook, the movement launched a "ViVi challenge" on 1 April 2022. The Telegram-based challenge financially incentivized users to paste banners or graffiti with slogans containing anti-vaccination messages on official buildings such as hospitals. Vandalism cases involving ViVi movement graffiti were subsequently reported across the Italian media.
- In our data sample of content authored by the ViVi movement, we identified 110 unique messages that were duplicated more than ten times on Facebook (with the most frequently duplicated comment being posted at least 577 times).
- The harassment campaign forced certain political pages to remove their pro-vaccine posts or turn off comments on their posts. At least one political party page also shared visual evidence that their local office was vandalised by members of the ViVi movement.

<sup>2</sup> Notably, the true volume of disseminated content is likely higher by several orders of magnitude. Through random sampling we collected roughly 30 percent of the comments on the 48 public Facebook pages – meaning the actual number of spam comments related to the accounts in question is likely around 50,000. Data collection period was June 2021 - June 2022.

ViVi Activity on Twitter

- Across 28 public political Twitter pages in Italy, we found 396 profiles involved in seemingly coordinated harassment and spam campaigns totalling over 6,613 tweets authored by the ViVi movement.
  - Similar to the patterns observed on Facebook, most of the analysed Tweets contained links to ViVi's Telegram channel or Facebook Group.
  - More than half of the analysed accounts were created in December 2021. Given that the coordinated harassment campaign began in January 2022, this finding suggests the bulk of involved Twitter accounts were set up specifically to carry out the targeted campaign.
  - Several hashtags were used in conjunction with the coordinated harassment campaign by the ViVi group on Twitter, including #novax, #GovernoCriminale, #DraghiVattene, #Draghistan, and #DittaturaNazisanitaria. As was the case on Facebook, the movement's primary messages were anti-vax and anti-government.

ViVi Activity on Facebook

As part of our investigation into ViVi activity on Facebook, we analysed user comments on 48 public Facebook pages affiliated with Italian political parties and politicians from June 2021 to June 2022. In doing so, we found a seemingly coordinated harassment and spam campaign consisting of over 15,000 pieces of content authored by the ViVi movement designed to suppress and intimidate pro-vax voices, and recruit new followers to Telegram channels that contain instructions for various offline ways to “join the fight” (including incentives for vandalism). In our view, the campaign violates several of Facebook's own community standards.

Campaign overview

The coordinated campaign began in August 2021 and peaked in April 2022, months after Facebook reported cracking down on the violent ViVi movement.

Comments authored by the V_V movement over time

Coinciding with a peak in Facebook activity, the movement launched a “ViVi challenge” on Telegram on 1 April 2022. The challenge called on users to paste banners or graffiti with slogans containing anti-vaccination messages on official buildings such as hospitals. A scoring system was established to identify the “best” vandalist, taking into account factors such as the location and visibility of the banner. The “winner” of the challenge was promised a cash prize of EUR 10,000. In the wake of the challenge, the Italian media reported on vandalism cases involving ViVi movement graffiti.

The largest share of the text-based content disseminated by ViVi's network of accounts on Facebook compares the Italian Government to a "Nazi Regime" because of its pro-vaccination policies, while also misrepresenting climate change as a "hoax". Visual content involved with the campaign frequently contained manipulated images portraying Italian politicians as Nazis. The Facebook Pages of Partito Democratico, Articolo UNO, and Italia Viva were the most frequent targets of ViVi's coordinated attacks. The highest peak in the number of comments was in April 2022 (data sample).

Evidence of coordinated inauthentic behaviour

The large-scale use of duplicate comments, as was found in our analysis of ViVi content, is a standard indicator of coordination (Twitter's Copypasta and duplicate content policy defines the phenomenon as an “an attempt by multiple individuals to duplicate content from an original source and share it widely across social platforms or forums”). In our data sample of content authored by the ViVi movement, we identified 110 unique messages that were duplicated more than ten times on Facebook. The most frequently duplicated comment in our sample was posted at least 577 times (the comment claims that vaccines cause cancer and AIDS, and directs readers to learn more about ViVi on Telegram).<sup>4</sup>

We found further evidence of spam and coordination in the density of ViVi's posting activities. Accounts associated with the movement commented more than 100 times under 44 posts in our dataset. Notably, the harassment campaign achieved its desired effects, leading political pages like "Italia Viva Puglia" to remove posts with pro-vax content after sustained coordinated attacks. A local Page of Partito Democratico similarly deactivated the commenting function on its posts in response to attacks (while also sharing visual evidence that their local office in Monteretondo Scalo was vandalised by members of the ViVi movement). Despite these findings, the movement continues to host Pages on Facebook.

Narrative analysis and trends

As part of our narrative analysis, we identified the top three terms used in text-based comments across the past year for comments that included the "Entra in ViVi" invite. For months, the main narrative focused on likening pro-vaccine policies to a “Nazi regime”, yet in June 2022 a new narrative appeared – this one claiming that climate change is a “hoax”. The new narrative accounted for 17% of all spam messages in the dataset during June.

We also assessed the relative degree to which the ViVi movement attacked various political parties in Italy. As demonstrated by the graph below, which shows the distribution of ViVi comments by party (red) versus the portion of all comments in the dataset that related to the party (blue), not all parties were attacked to the same degree. While comments on Partito Democratico (PD) pages constituted 21% of the entire dataset, 51% of all spam comments were found on PD pages. Articolo UNO and Italia Viva parties were similarly targeted: while only 2% of all comments from the dataset were left on Articolo UNO pages, 13% of spam comments were written on their pages. And while only 1% of comments in the dataset were left on "Italia Viva pages, 7% of spam comments appeared on their pages. Recently, new posts spreading the election fraud narrative were observed, and with the upcoming snap elections, similar posts and coordinated attacks against politicians and actors can occur.

At the same time, we saw the opposite trend for two relatively popular Italian parties, Five Star Movement (M5S) and Fratelli d'Italia (Fdi). Although M5S pages constituted 25% of the entire dataset, only four comments (virtually 0%) were found on M5S pages. And while 9% of comments in the dataset were left on Fdi pages, our analysis did not detect a single comment from the ViVi group on the party's pages.

ViVi Activity on Twitter

Our investigation also assessed ViVi activity on Twitter. Once again, we found evidence of coordinated inauthentic behaviour in the form of targeted harassment and spam campaigns.

Campaign overview

Across 28 public political Twitter pages in Italy, we found 396 profiles involved in seemingly coordinated harassment and spam campaigns totalling over 6,613 tweets authored by the ViVi movement. Similar to the patterns observed on Facebook, most of the analysed Tweets contained links to ViVi's Telegram channel or Facebook Group.<sup>5</sup> Notably, more than half of the analysed accounts were created in December 2021. Given that the coordinated harassment campaign began in January 2022, this finding suggests the bulk of involved Twitter accounts were set up specifically to carry out the targeted campaign.

In addition to identifying text-based and spam image replies, our analysis revealed several hashtags were used in conjunction with the coordinated harassment campaign by the ViVi group on Twitter. The most common hashtag by a considerable degree was #novax, followed by #GovernoCriminale, #DraghiVattene, #Draghistan, and #DittaturaNazisanitaria. As was the case on Facebook, the movement's primary messages were anti-vax and anti-government.

Evidence of coordinated inauthentic behaviour

The graph below reveals the timeline of the targeted spamming campaign, which both started and peaked in January 2022. By April and May, the volume of content authored by the movement decreased to less than 20% of its initial count.

Number of "ViVi" spam tweets over time

Reset.

More than half of the accounts involved in carrying out the ViVi campaign (201 of 396) were created in December 2021 (just days before campaign activity started on 1 January 2022). Our analysis also detected a peak in new registrations on 5 December 2021, with 39 new users created that day alone. Such findings indicate the coordinated harassment campaign was carefully planned and carried out according to a set schedule.

Examples of duplicated replies on Twitter

Translation: “It is from you psychopathic Nazis that we must defend ourselves! And the vaccine has already killed a lot of healthy and young people too. Treatment denied and killer protocols resulted in deaths: crimes justifying other crimes! Nazis!”

Translation: “It is shameful to impose a harmful serum on people by violating their rights and annihilating their dignity. You spam each other solidarity but your conscience never turns to those families destroyed and damaged by the blackmail you repeat. You are criminal Nazis!”

Translation: “YOUR FRASETS AND POST AS A CHILD, NAZI BONACCINI, DO NOT CHANGE AND WILL NEVER CHANGE THE FACT THAT YOU ARE AND REMAIN A NAZI EXECUTOR SERVANT OF A CRIMINAL AND ASSASSINATION NAZI RACIST SANITARY DICTATION!”

Translation: “You sympathise with @sbonaccini why does he endure the Truth? You Nazi and collaborationist monsters can lick each other’s ass as much as you want but you won’t escape the Truth, today as yesterday.”
